HAUPTMANN JURY CHOSEN, TRIAL BEGINS

With Charles Lindbergh reportedly carrying a gun because of rumored threats to his life, the court in Flemington, New Jersey reconvened Thursday for the start of the trial of Bruno Hauptmann, after a day of examinations in which five women and seven men were chosen as jurors.

The prosecution, which expects to call both the Lindberghs, Betty Gow, nurse, and Mrs. Ollie Whately, widow of the Lindbergh butler, within the next few days, opened its case Thursday when Attorney General Wilentz announced that the state's intention to prove that the man who climbed the kidnap ladder, took the baby from its crib, and killed it was Hauptmann. Wilentz asserted that the baby was killed in the fall when the kidnapper's ladder broke. Under New Jersey laws this is equivalent to a premeditated murder, because it occurred during the commission of the felony of kidnapping. The prosecution will also contend it was the German carpenter who stripped the sleeping suit from the dead child in order to perpetrate the ransom hoax, on the parents.

When the defense outlines its case, it was reported Wednesday, the charge will be made that persons other than Hauptmann kidnapped and killed the baby, and the defence will propose to prove that the kidnap investigation was bungled from the beginning, resulting in the arrest of an innocent man.

Wilentz added mystery to the expected testimony of Miss Gow by refusing to reply to a question as to whether she had identified Hauptmann as a man she had seen before. Several bombshells are expected to be exploded as the Lindbergh household tells in public for the first time the events of the tragic night in March, 1932.

Reports, denied by the prosecution, have it that the life of Charles Lindbergh has been threatened, and because of personal danger he wore a revolver

HUEY LONG LEGISLATION MAY COST LOUISIANA GOVERNMENT LOANS

Senator Huey P. Long, the most notorious public figure in the country, has at least brought down on his head comment from higher quarters. He announced in New Orleans Tuesday night that he will comment from the floor of the Senate next week on President Roosevelt's letter to Governor O. K. Allen informing the state's chief executive that Public Works loans will be withheld from Louisiana until some of Senator Long's recent legislation is repealed or clarified.

That President Roosevelt had written Governor Allen was disclosed in an Associated Press copyrighted story from Washington early Tuesday. Governor Allen, in a state to the AP in Baton Rouge, declared he "knew nothing about" a letter from President Roosevelt in connection with the possibility of Public Works Loans being held up.

Senator Long informed the press Tuesday that he would broadcast over station WDSU later in the week, and stated that he was in no hurry to get to Washington. "I'll reply to that (the President's letter) and similar other matters on the floor of the Senate Monday or the first day the Senate is in session next week", Long told reporters. When asked if he planned to be in Washington for the opening of Congress, Long replied "I'm not in any hurry; I hope they can get along up there without me until I get there".

In Baton Rouge Thursday Long's five cents a barrel tax on refined oil brought an announcement that the Standard Oil Company's plant there will begin curtailing its output and laying off employees Monday. A group of 27 refinery employees, elected under the industrial representation plan to represent the several thousand employees there, telegraphed an appeal to President Roosevelt and called a protest meeting for this evening.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The reorganization of the former Pan American Employees' Association into the Lago Employees' Athletic & Recreation Association brings the functions of that organization nearer to its primary purpose than it has appeared to be for some time and adds incentive for all its members to support its activities more wholeheartedly.

The first of these is the nomination and election of an entire new council on a more representative basis than has heretofore been the case. At the same time several proposed amendments to the newly adopted Constitution demand the attention of the members.

There is little to be said about the election. A few moments thought will tell any member of the Association what its activities mean to him in the course of a year. He needs only consider what he might do for diversion if it were not for the recreation and entertainment promoted by the Association--then the necessity for exercising extreme care in nominating and electing will be apparent. A councilman must be able and willing to devote considerable time and effort to the job. If any nominee feels that he is not, in justice to himself, the Association and its members, he should withdraw his name before the election. Members have until and including next Monday to make nominations. That is time enough for careful consideration, followed by a nominating letter. Don't wait for the other fellow to do it.

As may be expected of a new Constitution, certain irregularities become apparent and possible changes suggest themselves immediately after adoption. These are to be proffered to the members for approval or rejection, in the form of amendments, at the meeting of January 21st. The Constitution, with the amendments, has been widely posted, and it will be well for all members to study them carefully, to consider the relation of any amendment to the whole--especially the purpose and activities of the Association. This is not something to be left entirely to those charged with the administration of the affairs of the organization. As an aid in making this study, we present the following from a member of the retiring council:

"The proposed amendments to the new constitution, which are to be voted on January 21st, should be divided into three groups for analysis.

"Group one, which consists of amendments 3 and 4, is needed to clarify the intent of existing articles and should be voted into the constitution for the sake of rectifying these small omissions.

"Group two consists of amendments 1, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13. These are intended to give the Council power to divide the athletics up among four committee chairman instead of making all sports the responsibility of one man as heretofore. These should be considered as a group and voted for or against en bloc.

"Group three consists of (a) amendment 2 which would provide a change of Council in December, when there is a lull in athletic activity instead of during the con-

PIRATE JUNK by Clifford Johnson

It's an old Chinese custom, being kidnapped by Manchurian bandits. They set ransom for three British officers of the merchantman "Nanchang", at two million dollars and eighty pair of socks. They would have settled for thirty thousand dollars and two hundred pair of socks. After five months there was a settlement, but its terms the author does not specify. During the captivity, one of the victims, Clifford Johnson, scribbled on cigarette paper a day by day diary, now published.

His recital offers more thrills to the square inch than we have encountered in a long time. Surely a literary prize of some sort will reward his work. A selectivity of details sharply etched and tersely drawn to a climax savors of long discipline in writing. Yet Johnson, up to March 29, 1933, when the brigands overpowered him and his colleagues, Blue and Hargrave, had pursued but one career--the sea.

Many times, during the captivity, death would have been welcomed by the three victims. They were tormented and beaten, ill fed and themselves fed on by vermin. A dark and festering hole in a pirate junk was their cabin. The bandits, impatient of delay, planned to send their ears home as a gentle reminder of the merit of haste. The three, tightly bound by ropes, were marched barefoot through reedy marshes, all but dying of fever and septic poisoning.

To this description of filth and terror Johnson devotes no more space than to the moments of laughter that enabled the three to keep their sanity. The bare-chested bandit majestic in Johnson's evening clothes; the infatuation of another with a magazine photograph of a rhinoceros; the quarrel of the white men over two and a half sardines; the joy in reading all the things one can do with Bovril; the song they unhappily began and had to continue singing all day--these items lend a reality to the narrative that enhances its effectiveness.

The book is quickly read, but will not be quickly forgotten. One reaches the annoying conclusion: scratch an Englishman, any Englishman, and discover an author, usually competent. But Johnson is much more than competent. His further work is to be watched.

WORLD BRIDGE OLYMPIC

Twenty of the world's greatest authorities chose the sixteen unusually interesting bridge hands for this year's "Olympic". There will be no intricate problems or freakish distributions, but each hand will be similar to those dealt in an ordinary game of rubber bridge. Any system of bidding and play can win as the committee of judges represent all known systems. They have decided upon the correct bidding and play for each hand; therefore, all players have an equal chance to win, no matter whether they are playing against good or bad partners.

Select your partner and get your entry in to Mr. Phil Hunter or Bob Harrison; the number of tables may be limited this year, so enter now and you will have about four week's to practice.

Mr. Ely Culbertson will send each player a free analysis of the correct bidding and play as soon as possible after the night of play, Friday, February 1st at 8 P. M.

January 1st is more than just New Years Day to little Miss Bequita Neal. It is her birthday. Miss Bequita celebrated this important occasion with a birthday party, entertaining a dozen of her little friends in a very regal way.

Sometime ago this column made mention of the fact that a certain charming young lady, who had just returned to Aruba from vacation, was wearing a solitarie diamond ring. Now it so happens that in Aruba the wearing of a diamond ring by a charming young lady is considered more interesting news than the proverbial man biting a dog. The difficulty at the time, however, was that it was overlooked that the ring was not being worn upon the correct finger to give it the significance implied. BUT the correct ring finger of this aforementioned charming young lady is now under observation, and they say it will soon be wearing a very significant "Rock".

The Contract Bridge Club, having reached the age of one year, varied its weekly program by inviting six additional couples of Contractors to join them at their favorite game. The festivities were held at Bungalow 189, and the prizes offered for the highest scores for the evening went to Mrs. J. Donald Heebner and Mr. W. R. C. Miller, first, and Mrs. L. G. Smith and Mr. Frank Campbell, second.

The Dredge "JAMAICA BAY" now at work in the harbor, is almost as good for digging up local history as an old copy of THE PAN ARUBAN. Working as it is at present, about the place where a former dredge had been anchored for several years, the JAMAICA BAY keeps digging up all sorts of relics and reminders of the past. A stilson wrench, a Chinese love-letter and a wedding ring are only a few of the things pumped out of the bay.

The year 1935 came to Aruba with smacks and bangs. Chester Birrell and boys furnished the bangs, while the smacks came from the girls, bless their hearts. Kissing is such a nice way to start the new year. Whistles and bells and fire-crackers are all very well, but a couple of smacking kisses from the ladies about you are much more inspiring. They do so much to help along these brand new resolutions.

Aruba turned out en masse to the dances New Year's Eve. Nearly 600 people crowded into the Pan Am Club to make merry as 1934 faded out of the picture and 1935 took the center of the stage. The scene was fully as gay as any to be found even in the large cities, and with such a large number of people in attendance at the Pan Am Club one might surmise that the Lago Club had been neglected. Not at all - the jolly little club house was filled to overflowing with New Years celebrators. Captain and Mrs. Rodgers were among the earlier arrivals, and remained until the New Year was several hours old. Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Smith and party dropped in some time after New Years had been ushered in, and joined the steppers-outers at the Marine Club.

Various dinner parties eventually found their way to the several club dances. The twenty progressive diners who started at the bungalow of Dr. and Mrs. James Reid, and moved on to the J.S. McMurrin and the Lloyd Scott bungalows, merrily continued their happy party at the Lago Club, and like many other parties on this hilarious night, ended their fun-making at the egg-and-bacon hour.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Club will be held on Monday, January 7th, 1935 at the Community House. The hour set is 2 P. M. All the ladies of the colony are invited to attend this meeting.

FIVE YEARS AGO - JANUARY 5, 1930

In this issue was carried a glowing account of the opening of the Club House and the first New Years Even party held there. Among the high lights of the write up were:

Music by the Fun Makers from 10 PM until 5 AM

On the program given shortly after midnight were:

Art Krottnauer, Jr., who did a tap dance.

G. J. Williams sang "Mammy".

Bedtime number by Repass, Moyer and Pattison.

These artists did their stuff amid much cheering, throwing of confetti and more noise than artists usually face while performing. The audience was full of good spirits.

Dinner was served shortly after the New Year came in, and a thick layer of confetti from the celebrators showered the entire meal.

Outside, Oscar Henschke did his dynamite act, saluting the New Year with much gusto.

In pep and hilarity this first New Years party was as successful as any ever put on since this auspicious opening.

Henry Ford announced his new 1930 car, saying the latest edition would have roomier interiors, new colors, and larger fenders.

Lunn Easten had just coined the word "Maglook".

George Cleveland, during these exciting days, found time to define love. He explained that the way to tell if it was love that was bothering you, or just the weather, was to notice how you felt about a certain young lady, and then get a cold in the head, and if you still felt the same way about the lady, its love.

A number of boys were just completing their first year in Aruba about this time. Our reporter at that time solicited some testimonials of Aruba from these pioneers. They were most enthusiastic. A few of them are repeated herewith:

B. J. ENGLISH had this to say:

My pet hobby had always been to follow the medical profession. Heretofore I have been denied this privilege, but since coming to Aruba it has been my pleasure to follow medical students to my heart's content.

RALPH SMITH was glad to say:

Before coming to Aruba I had difficulty in eating three square meals a day, especially when out of work. Since landing on this island, I not only eat three square meals daily, but find time to get a midnight lunch, disguised as a shift worker.

ANDREW TULLY, an English colleague, said:

While at home in England I had been hampered in my study of the English language. I could not seem to learn it, and my friends were worried. Then I came to Aruba, and after one year on this island among the Yankees, I have acquired a knowledge of English which I am certain will surprise my friends at home.

FLARES OVER THE HORIZON

This week closes with a number of the Foster Wheeler organization returning northward brightening the horizon off the coral bound coast with glowing smiles of satisfaction--satisfied that they are returning home to old friends but pleased with the fact that they have friends in Aruba to look back to.

Those leaving on the Pan Bolivar include A.M.Lobo, R.C.Hoffman, B.A.Gerner, N.J. Jones and Ned Elkins. On the S. S. Charles Pratt are C.M.Dean, C.A.Dunham, Ralph Porter, C.H.Mitchell and W.E.Hammer. Those who left in December were P.P.Hines J.L.Dougherty and Frank Flur. It won't be long now until Aruba will be only a memory in the life of the whole organization.

BRITISH COAL FOR FREE STATE CATTLE

In an informal agreement regarded in London as the first move toward the restoration of normal relations, the Anglo-Irish economic war was terminated Wednesday by a truce involving Irish cattle and British coal.

A gentlemen's agreement was concluded, to be effective the first of February, where the Free State will import an additional million sterling worth of British coal, with John Bull importing a hundred and fifty thousand head of Irish cattle annually.

Still outside the wedge created by these trade negotiations are special duties which will remain in force in both countries, while political issues such as citizenship were held in abeyance.

SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS GAIN CONTROL OF CONGRESS

Sweeping aside sectionalism arguments, the outnumbered Southern Democrats Wednesday broke down Northern defences and captured complete organization control of the 74th Congress which opened Thursday.

Then in a step labeled by opponents as a move toward gag rule, House Democrats voted 225 to 60 to increase from 145 to 218 the number of signers of a petition to force a bill out of committee and onto the floor.

Besides holding their own power in the Senate, Southern Democrats made successful organization raids in the secret Democratic House caucus. Representative Byrns of Tennessee was nominated speaker by acclamation, after the only remaining candidate, Rep. Robert Crosser of Ohio, withdrew.

Despite his absence because of illness, friends of Rep. William B. Bankhead of Alabama shoved their candidate to victory on the second secret ballot for Democrat floor leader. Bankhead, popular chairman of the powerful Rules Committee polled 156 out of 301 votes on the second ballot, after leading a field of eight on the first ballot with 140.

SEWANEE'S DOG DIES AFTER 17 YEARS AS A COLLEGE PERSONAGE

After 17 years in College Fitz, the dog with a charge account, died recently. His demise left a lot of sad eyed students and at least one downhearted faculty member, for Fitz was a tradition as well as a dog and since the years of the war no student entered Sewanee without making his acquaintance.

Though he was the friend of all the university, the big collie was especially fond of Dr. George Baker, dean of the college of arts and sciences, whose classes he attended faithfully since 1922.

"He understands French and German as well as he does English," once said the dean, who called him "Tion Fils."

"There was a pious as well as a studious side to his nature. Until the spring of 1935 Fitz went to Chapel each morning at nine o'clock. But last year the chapel time was changed to noon, and he never went again.

LINER CUT IN HALF BY COLLISION SINKS IN EAST RIVER

Five men were missing late Wednesday after the forty year old Colonial Liner Lexington had been split and sunk in a collision with the steel freighter Jane Christenson in the busy East River, a short distance below Brooklyn Bridge.

All of the passengers, estimated between 100 and 120, were believed saved by dozens of river craft which rushed to the stricken Lexington as it settled to its funnels. Rescue work was carried on at frantic speed, as the ship sank in two parts within ten minutes of the crash.

Fifty members of the crew were saved, but five had not been located more than six hours after the accident.

COMPETITOR SLAYER GETS FULL PARDON

The unwritten law was invoked Thursday in behalf of women by the ranking member of her sex in Texas, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. Defending the principle that a woman has a right to defend her home, the Governor granted a complete pardon to Mrs. Mary Boone of Dallas, who killed her husband's paramour, Mrs. Pearl Hall. Mrs. Boone was convicted in October of last year, and sentenced to five years imprisonment.

"The convicted woman should not be punished," said Governor Ferguson, in granting the pardon. "I realize that it is a serious thing for one woman to kill another, but who would say under the facts in the case that Mrs. Mary Boone was not seeking to do the right thing and that the deceased was doing the wrong thing. It is no answer to say that the husband was as guilty as the deceased. He can thank his lucky stars that he has escaped the same fate. I am only calling attention to the awful crime that has been committed against Mary Boone, which caused her to shoot in defense of her family and of her home, as well as her own personal defense". The governor concluded with a rebuke for women philanderers.

We must look upon things as they are, and not as we wish them to be.

FAMILIAR QUERY DRAWS ANSWER

For years the stock remark of speed cops has been "Who do you think you are, Barney Oldfield?" This week in Salinas, California, a surprised copper got an affirmative answer. It was Barney Oldfield. The noted automobile racer was cited for speeding.

PAN AM RIFLE CLUB TOURNAMENT

The Pan Am Rifle Club is blossoming forth with Aruba's biggest rifle tournament. All residents of the Pan Am Colony are being given an opportunity to enter and win trophies galore. Besides many individual medals a beautiful team trophy will be at stake. Everyone is eligible for this tournament commencing January 13 and lasting until April 21.

On this big day there will be a team match between qualifying teams representing several Aruban organizations. It is expected that at least ten teams will be able to qualify. Any club that thinks they can gather up five marksmen able to hold any regular army rifle two minutes and steady enough to score 350 points out of a possible 500, at two hundred meters from regulation prone, sitting, kneeling, or standing positions, strap permitted, is eligible to register such entering team. The big prize will be the Pan Am Rifle Club's beautiful silver trophy; a tall column at the top of which stands the "goddess of victory" with five silver Springfield's standing on the base and leaning against the column. A wide silver band encircles the base and affords ample space for inscribing the names of members of winning teams, for it is expected that this trophy will be hotly contested for and hard to keep. In order to be permanently retained a club must have entered a winning team three times in succession.

In order to make the approach to this day interesting a series of "shoots" has been arranged.

(1) Qualifying Rounds

There will be seven days set aside for qualifying rounds. All riflemen expecting to take part, or to just shoot for the fun of entering into one of man's cleanest sports, will shoot at least three series of ten shots preceded by only two trial shots which will be called back to the firing line from the butts. All shooters will be required to specifically ask for twelve shells for the purpose of firing off their first, second, or third series of qualifying rounds. These specific scores will classify the entrants into one of three classes; i.e., class 1 will consist of marksmen averaging below 70 out of a possible 100; class 2 will consist of marksmen averaging from 70 to 80 out of 100 possible; and class 3 will consist of marksmen averaging 80, or above, out of 100 possible. The dates for these rounds will be January 13, 20, 27, Feb'y. 3, 10, 17 and 24.

(2) Qualifying Rounds Finals and Team Try-Outs

There will be three days set aside for finals in which the individuals will be scored and awarded prizes based on one series of ten shots fired as previously specified. Such round must be announced to the judges previous to being fired. These rounds will be for the purpose of determining the relative position of the individuals in each group.

These scores averaged with the three previous scores, will also be used for the purpose of selecting the six high men to compose the team of five, plus one alternate, to represent the Pan Am Rifle Club in the Tournament finals to be held on April 21.

Other teams may be selected according to any plan desired by the particular clubs picking members for a team to represent them.

(3) Team Qualifying Rounds.

There will be three days set aside so that teams may qualify for entrance on the big day, April 21-25.

The team trophy is a dandy and will only be open for competition to teams of quality and real shooting ability. Therefore it has been decided that a team must present a score sheet showing a score of more than 315 and it must be signed by the five members of the team. It will not be necessary for all the members of a team to shoot on the same date. Teams representing employees clubs may shoot on any of the three dates, namely March 17, 24 and 31.

The team with the highest score will be considered champions of the Lago Colony and each member will be given appropriate medals.

(4) Grand Shooting Tournament

April 21 has been set aside as the date for determining the rifle championship of Aruba. Any team representing a duly organized club and presenting a score sheet signed as specified showing that the team can shoot more than 315 out of 500 possible, is entitled to enter.

Employee teams will be given an opportunity to practice on the intervening dates of April 7 and 14.

All entries are to be handed either to Mr. A.E. Krottnauer, President Pan Am Rifle Club, or Mr. Phil Hunter, Pan Am Club Manager. Entries will also be accepted by those in charge of the range on the above specified dates.

Non-club members will be charged an entry fee of $1.00 per man.

ALABAMA DEFEATS STANFORD IN ROSE BOWL GAME 29 to 13 - HOLDS RECORD OF FOUR STRAIGHT TRIPS WITHOUT DEFEAT

Alabama University has always put out good football teams. They have always been up among the leaders in the Southern Conference and have always rated well with the major universities in the United States. The Crimson Tide had a team this year that was about as good as any team they had ever before gathered together.

On New Year's Day, having been chosen to represent the East, South and Middle West against the Leland Stanford University, they entered the Rose Bowl game with the odds at least even and perhaps slightly in their favor, but there was no one who thought that they would shut out the Stanford team quite like they did.

All of the leading sports writers attended the game, as well as several of the nation's most prominent citizens. There were 85,000 persons assembled in the huge Rose Bowl to witness this battle of the giants and those who came to the game were treated to what was perhaps the greatest exhibition of forward passing that the game has seen, especially in a game of the importance of the Rose Bowl encounter.

Stanford had things one hundred per cent in favor of Stanford in the first quarter. Bobby Grayson, Monk Moscrip and Robertson were doing their stuff. A fumble was recovered by Stanford on Alabama's 25 yd. line and Grayson, in a series of off tackle plays and short reverses, carried the ball over for a touchdown. The extra point was added via place kick and the score at the end of the quarter was Stanford 7 Alabama 0.

The second quarter was when the big blow-off came. Alabama scored no less than three touchdowns, one field goal and made one conversion good. Smith kicked the field goal from an almost impossible angle. Dixie Howell made a sixty eight yard run for a touchdown. Don Hutson, rated as the best end of the South, scored the other touchdowns on passes that he nailed from every position imaginable. The half ended with the score 22 to 7 and the Crimson Tide had twenty two points in eight minutes. Everything went to the Alabama boys in the second quarter, although Stanford had made more first downs than Alabama at this time. In the first half Stanford made four first downs from running plays and one from passes. Alabama had made four first downs, all of them from passes.

Grantland Rice spoke over the radio at the half and said that Howell was one of the greatest backs that he had ever seen, and that the Alabama team had put on one of the best passing attacks that it had ever been his privilege to watch. We wondered at the time why Howell was overlooked on Rice's All-American team. Johnny Mack Brown also told the folks down Alabama way how the boys were doing. Mack was a former Alabama star and a player of All-America fame.

The last half was spectacular after a fashion, both teams scoring one touchdown each, but the big damage was done in the second quarter and there was no catching the Crimson Tide.

The final score was 29 to 13, one of the highest totals ever recorded in a Rose Bowl game.

TENTATIVE BASKETBALL PLANS CALL FOR OPENER JANUARY 14TH.

As this is written, the most recent plans called for the opening of the 1935 basketball season on Monday, January 14th. There are some teams that haven't made their position quite clear and if there is to be a schedule drawn up, and if there is to be any arrangement of teams etc., it would seem like these doubtful entrants would hurry and get into line.

There will be games each Monday and Thursday nights until the season is completed. There will be one open league and one closed league game each night. There is one exception to the foregoing, this being January 21st when the new Council is to be elected.

Some of the new rules are as follows (being subject to the approval of the managers): A player will not be allowed to play in both leagues. A player who has "made" a closed league team, shall not transfer to an open league team. A player is considered in the closed league if his name has been entered as a closed league player and he has appeared in one or more games as a player.

There will be a meeting of the managers next week to vote on some of the rules, etc.

There have been three applicants for the refereeing position, namely Linkogle, Single-barrel Strong and John Mechling. The latter will not be eligible if he is elected to the Council, and although this column is not supposed to do any electioneering, we cannot see why Mechling will not be re-elected as his promotional work along athletic lines has proved to be very popular. Linkogle or Strong either would make good referees. Strong has had a season's experience and fared very well as an official. There is no doubt that Linkogle would be very satisfactory. He knows the game, is well liked by the players and fans and we are sure he would exercise the authority that is necessary for the best interests of the game.

Everyone is anxious to get started and we hope that the starting date isn't delayed any longer than January 14th. There are some players who have been practicing for a month or more and these fellows will have enough of basketball before the season starts unless there is some action taken. Apparently the managers of the teams haven't taken enough interest in the thing to post their teams' names etc. At least there seems to be some hold-up for things aren't progressing any too well.

I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of Experience.--Patrick Henry.

BASKETBALL NOTICE!

Teams wishing to enter either the Closed or Open Leagues must submit a written list of eligible players to J. Y. Mechling.

There will be a meeting of the Closed League managers in the Club Committee room at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday January 8th. There will be an Open League meeting at 7:30 p.m. on the same night, Tuesday, Jan. 8th.

The lists mentioned above should be presented to Mr. Mechling on or before that date, otherwise some difficulty may be encountered in placing a team in the field.

These lists should state whether the team is to enter the open or closed league; it should state the name of their official representative, and the name under which the team desired to be entered.

There will be no other meeting than the ones scheduled above, so the managers of the various teams will please arrange to be present or have a duly authorized party present as representative.

MECHLING WINS OPEN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The open tennis tournament was won by J. Y. Mechling as he defeated W. R. White in the final round of the championship by a score of 6-3, 3-6, 9-11, 6-4, 6-1. In the opening set, Mechling was playing his steady game while White was far from his usual form. He seemed to grow better as the match went on and broke Mechling's service twice to take the second set. The third set started off at a fast pace as each man sought the advantage of the odd set. Service was broken thru twice on each side by the time the ninth game started. Here, service was won, often with difficulty, until the deciding break thru Mechling in the nineteenth game. Both men had given of their best in this long drawn-out set and as the fourth set started, White seemed to be the fresher. But neither player could keep the upper hand and in an effort to stave off the loss of the set, White evened at 4 all when the set had to be stopped because of darkness.

The match was resumed the next day with the fourth set being entirely replayed. The play was very close, seven of the ten games going to deuce. White had a lead of 4-2 in this set and seemed a certain victor, but Mechling braced and ran off four games in a row to even the match. With the likelihood of a strong comeback by White, Mechling forced the pace of the play in the fifth set and White was never in the running. He trailed at 0-5 and only managed to deuce one game before he won the sixth game. Mechling, however, had apparently merely wanted a breather before applying the finishing touch as he won the next game on his service at love for the set, match and championship!

Mechling's good play during the tournament was not entirely unforeseen by the Tennis Tournament Committee as he had been seeded at No. 5 solely on the basis of his good showing in the No. 2 doubles matches during the past league season. His victory, naturally, was in the nature of an upset because White had been seeded at No. 4 in the tournament and was the favorite due to the elimination of the first three seeded men, No. 3 having gone out to Mechling.

Mechling had won his way into the final round by eliminating Schlageter in the semifinal round at 6-4, 6-2, 6-1. This match was also played on two days because of the approach of darkness. Schlageter had given an indication in the first set that the match would be close, and he had survived four match points in the third set which ended at 6 all and was replayed the next day. However, this set was quickly taken by Mechling when Schlageter could never get under way.

White had a more difficult path to the last round, having a close match in the semifinal bracket with T.H.Cotton, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, 1-6, 6-0. White missed a victory in straight sets by the narrowest of margins as he had at least three set points on Cotton in the second set before eventually losing it. As in the foregoing matches, this one was likewise played during the course of two days but with the difference that the two days were ten days apart! This may have accounted for the rather weird turn of events in the last three sets which were played off on the later date. Cotton dropped his service twice, costing him the third set. But White faltered in the face of a determined bid by Cotton which was not to be denied, and Cotton chalked the fourth set up to his credit to tie the match. This match, which had been great hustling and court covering by both players, now produced a return to form by White and an utter inability to do anything with the ball by Cotton. He scored but eight points in the fifth set, three in the last game, and this enabled White to win the match with a love set.

White had encountered a bit of unexpected opposition in the quarterfinal found by the determined play of R.C.Harrison. Harrison forced the first set to 7-5 but then succumbed to the concentrated attack of White at 6-2 in the next set.

With the completion of the league season and both the closed and open tournaments, it is felt that a good deal has been learned about the play of each competitor, and these records will be available for reference and ranking during the coming season. While nothing official has been decided, there is some talk in tennis circles of the formation of a ranking ladder which is generally acknowledged as the fairest means of competition where the same players are always concerned. Regardless of the manner of competition during the year of 1935, play should be of an even higher standard than during the past season which possibly saw greater and wider interest in the game than ever before.

The Tennis Tournament and League Referee again take this opportunity to thank all those concerned (too numerous to mention) for their kind cooperation in making competitive tennis such a success during the past year. If they have increased but one player's skill or knowledge of the game, they should feel that their efforts have not been in vain.

FIGHTING IS SERIOUS BUSINESS WITH MAXIE BAER

In New York on December 29th, Max Baer knocked out Kingfish Lofinsky in the early part of the second round of a scheduled ten round bout that was supposed to be an exhibition. The spectators were stunned by the sudden finish as the heavyweight champion went to work in his best style. The fighters had agreed that there would be no decision unless one of them should be knocked out. The champion attempted to get Levinsky to lead and laughed when Levinsky refused to do so. In the short lived second round, Baer with a snarl tore into Levinsky, drove him to the ropes under a murderous attack.

Levinsky sagged and as he attempted to get to the center of the ring, Baer nailed him with a terrific right to the jaw and the Kingfish, from where he lay flat on his back, was counted out.

ODDS AND ENDS

Joe Oeschager had a part in two of the most famous marathons of modern baseball. On April 30, 1919, while toiling for the Philadelphia Phillies, Oeschager fought a 20-inning pitching duel with Burleigh Grimes of the Dodgers, the contest ending in a 9 to 9 tie. Incidentally Oeschager was the only player on either side who went hitless, going to bat eight times and failing to produce a single. A year later--May 1, 1920--Joe, then with the Boston Braves, hooked up in his famous 26-inning classic with Leon Cadore of the Dodgers. This game also ended in a tie--1 to 1.

When the Chicago White Sox of 1906--Fielder Jones' Hitless Wonders--crashed the Chicago Cubs in the World's Series, four games to two, the American Leaguers had a batting average of only .198 for the series. The two defeats administered Jones' club were a one-hit shut-out at the hands of Ed Ruelbach and a two-hit whitewashing dished up by Mordecai Brown.

Ray Schalk, when a member of the Chicago White Sox, though his work was confined to catching, recorded one or more put-outs at every base on the infield.

The International League teams played a total of 145 double headers during the 1923 season.

Muskogee of the Western Association finished the 1923 campaign with a 38 straight setback.

The 1911 World's Series did not end until October 26.

During the seasons of 1907-08-09, the Chicago White Sox played a total of 472 games and of that number, Frank Smith and Ed Walsh pitched 286. The Sox won 253 of these games, of which 142 were credited to Smith and Walsh.

BRIEF BITS OF BASEBALL GOSSIP

Stopping off in Albany, N.Y. to visit Johnny Evers, who is now serving as a scout for the Boston Braves, at the latter's sporting goods store, Walter)Rabbit) Maranville declared that "they will have a tough time keeping me out of the line-up next season." The veteran infielder, who suffered a broken leg in an exhibition game against the Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla. last spring, added: "I don't want a coaching job. I want to be in there playing." Maranville danced around on his injured underpin, to demonstrate to Evers that it was sound and supple again. Evers, however, reminded him that "It may feel different when you get out in the infield next spring." but the Rabbit laughed off the suggestion. The pair have been close friends since they played alongside each other on the Braves' miracle team of 1914, and Evers visited Maranville frequently in Rochester, N.Y. last summer. Maranville was en route from his old home in Springfield, Mass. to Rochester.

Casey Stengel, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, addressed the members of the Ad-Men's Post of the American Legion in New York City at their weekly luncheon, December 3. Casey related some of the inside happenings during his years as a manager, coach and player and said the Dodgers were going to surprise the rest of the National League next season.

Charley Devens, the Harvard graduate, may be back with the New York Yankees after all, next season. Recently, it had been said that he would give up the game and go into the banking business in Boston, Mass. However, it is understood that Charley's bridge, one of the younger social set of Boston, whom he recently married, has no objection to his continuation in the game and he may reconsider his decision to quit.

Minneapolis' 1935 squad will train in Florida next spring for the first time in the Millers' history, Mike Kelley, head of the American Association Club, selecting the town of Deland. St. Paul and Milwaukee will train together again at Hot Springs, Ark., Indianapolis at Mayfield, Ky., Columbus at Avon Park, Louisville at Union City, Tenn., and Toledo also will go into northern Tennessee, at a site yet to be picked.

strapped under his arm when he came into court to aid the State in avenging the murder of his son. The world hero sat only eight feet away from Hauptmann, both of them in a line of chairs facing benign supreme court justice Thomas Trenchard.

AFRICA-EUROPE AIR ROUTE CHARTED

With a globe literally covered with air mail and passenger plane routes coming steadily closer to realization, another was added late last week to the growing list of experimental and route-tracing flights, of which the most recent were Captain Ulm's disastrous attempt to span the Pacific, and the successful flight of the Snip from Amsterdam to the West Indies.

Saturday noon the DeHavilland Comet airplane "Queen Astrid", piloted by a British airman, Fred Waller, and a Belgian, H. Franchomme, arrived in Brussels after a flight of over a thousand miles from Oran, in North Africa. The two aviators, carrying out an experimental flight to examine the possibilities of fast airmail service between Belgium and the Belgian Congo, were welcomed by a large gathering, including Britain's ambassador in Brussels and the Belgian Minister of Colonies.

AMERICAN ESPIONAGE PRISONERS WAIT YEAR FOR TRIAL

Rounding out a full year in a Parisian prison last week, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, Americans accused of espionage against the military security of France, saw a brighter New Year ahead of them when they learned Tuesday that they will be brought to trial the latter half of this month.

Switz, born in Madison, Wisconsin, has lost sixty pounds since his arrest, and his wife, a New Yorker, is now down to 99 pounds, a loss of seventeen pounds since she was placed in La Petite Roquette prison to await the trial that has been pending for a year.

Neither has asked the aid of American governmental representatives in Paris, but American officials there are carefully watching the case.

More of Long's tactics came under fire late last week when executive committeemen of the Association of American Law Schools issued a report in which they alleged that political domination is undermining various educational facilities at Louisiana State University. Without mentioning the name of Long, the report recommended an additional investigation of the situation at the university.

It deferred any disciplinary action, however, out of consideration to the L. S. U. faculty, which the report characterized as having acted with propriety "so far as it has had the power so to do".

"THREE'S A CROWD" TRIAL STUMPS JUDGE

Believing that twin beds are company but three beds are a crowd, Mrs. C. Hall of Chicago, suing for separate maintenance, told Judge F. Allegretti her husband insisted on having a body-guard sleep on a cot between their twin beds.

Hall, publisher of three racing magazines, said the man was a guest and that Mrs. Hall humiliated him by rude remarks. "Well, I ask you", interrupted Mrs. Hall, "wouldn't you protest if you were a lady and your husband brought a strange man to sleep in the same room and practically in the same bed, and--"

Judge Allegretti wiped his suddenly perspiring face with a handkerchief and said he guessed he would take the case under advisement.

AMERICAN WOMAN INSULTS NAZIS, ARRESTED

Persistent pressure by United States consular authorities resulted in the release Thursday of Miss Elsa Sittell, young New York woman, held for ten days in solitary confinement at Waldmohur, Germany, on charges of slandering Hitler.

Miss Sittell, who was once secretary to John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1924, intends to proceed with her original plan of visiting her parents in Germany before returning to America.

ENGLAND PROPOSES GENERAL SECURITY PACT HITLER AFFIRMS GERMAN PEACEFULNESS

With Great Britain proposing as her New Year contribution to the cause of peace a general European security pact welding all continental powers into one common front against war, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler Wednesday gave the diplomats of the world powers assurance of Germany's peaceful intentions under an international golden rule.

He told the diplomats who called on him at the Presidential palace, "No country wants peace more than Germany, which after difficult years of need and suffering seeks repose to concentrate all her powers on internal reconstruction. I see no international problems which cannot be solved through understanding cooperation".

Immediately after the reception of foreign emissaries Hitler received the homage of Nazi storm troopers and hundreds of civilians who crowded the grounds of the palace.

The New Year feelings of international fellowship evinced by the governments did not extend to the governed, however. Reports from Saarbrucken, in the Saar territor, Wednesday told of two men dead, eight others seriously injured, and scores less severely hurt after a series of New Years clashes between French and German partisans in the forthcoming plebiscite.

Geoffrey Knox, Saar commissioner appointed by the League of Nations Council, issued a statement attributing the deaths to suicide, but rumors persisted that the two men were either killed in fights or ended their own lives because of possible persecution after the Saar Basin is returned to Germany. German success has been widely predicted in the plebiscite, which will be held a week from Sunday.

FAILURE TO SUIT ACTION TO WORD PROVES COMICAL

"Flat feet", said Dr. Robert Montiel, of Redwood City, California, "never cause people to stumble. Why, I've had them all my life, and you don't see me stumbling around".

With that the doctor got up from the witness stand in a Redwood City court, where he was testifying in an accident case, stumbled, and fell flat on his face.
